

PRESS RELEASE

‘IN COLOUR’

An Exhibition of Recent Paintings and Prints by Four Artists

Sue Ribbans, Lyn Rohde, Stephanie Wilkinson, Jim Woodman

The Bank Gallery - 30 March to 11 April

Four artists, noted for their lively approach to colour, are showing a collection of their work at the Bank Gallery, Chobham over the Easter holidays. Oil paintings depicting beautiful and brooding landscapes are shown alongside modern abstract still lifes, fantasy watercolour characters and colourful linocuts where athletic bodies seem to run, leap, dive and throw.

Sue Ribbans works with linocuts and creates images of movement that echo of the work of Eadweard Muybridge, a pioneer of motion pictures. Sue says “Add colour to the equation and the over printing of just three transparent inks - magenta, blue and yellow - results in an unforeseen range of new colours and accidental images emerging on the paper”.

Lyn Rohde finds inspiration in her immediate environment. She brings new life to places, flowers and objects with bold colour, strong rhythm and plenty of joie de vivre.

Stephanie Wilkinson’s work reflects her interest in the home and results in paintings of imaginary interiors, maternal compositions and fantasy characters that stir memories. ‘Often an image that is playfully created from my imagination will result in something that I recognise deep within.’ She also produces a range of witty aprons and oven gloves that list a mother’s routine.

Jim Woodman’s paintings celebrate the stark, moody beauty of the island of Skye with the use of strong, vibrant colours that imbue these landscapes with warmth and intensity. ‘I do not seek to portray the landscape as we see it with the naked eye, but to capture the intense emotions I experience in places, like a windswept Scottish hillside with its deep purples and rusts. Places move me’.
